HOSPITAL ACCOMMODATION.

Those who are in charge of the hospitals in the city say it will be necessary to spend next year something like three-quarters of a million dollars in enlarging the buildings and providing equipment. The sum is a large one, but this is only another way of saying that the need is large. It is also an imperative need. The sick must be cared for, no matter what the cost.

THE "HAT BOY."

The Toronto "Herald" (Independent Conservative) says: "The C.P.R. now acts upon the theory that the 'Herald' Government is in a state of 'hat boy' and 'made up of rascals who will permit the C.P.R. to do as it pleases' and 'foot such small remnants of justice as the decisions of the Railway Commission have left to 'Toronto'." The Telegram has been describing the attitude of the C.P.R. toward the Government in reference to several matters of local concern to Toronto. It might be thought from the language that reference was made to the attitude the company took toward the Government in connection with the recent stock issue. The description would fit the case. It may be added that in treating the Government as a "hat boy" or "valley" the C.P.R. knows what it is doing.

AN UNWORTHY MOVEMENT.

The British Tar Reform League have appealed for financial assistance from Canadians in sympathy with their tariff views. The appeal will rather confirm the suspicion that the opponents of reciprocity in Canada were helped financially last year by the tariff boosters of England. John Bull is not a beggar, and the Englishman who hopes to impose a tariff on the rest of the community for his own benefit would hardly ask an outsider for help unless he had no other like help to the outsider when he had a similar deal to "put over."

It is to be hoped, for the sake of good relations between Great Britain and Canada, that there will be no notable response to this appeal. Whether Britain should readopt the long abandoned policy of reciprocity is a matter of political controversy in Great Britain and a matter which should be settled by the people of Great Britain without interference from the over-seas dominions. Should there be conspicuous interference in this domestic controversy from Canada, it can only be expected that there will be reciprocal interference from Great Britain in the political controversies and party struggles of Canada. Such intermeddling by busybodies and interested individuals from either country in the affairs of the other cannot make for the growth of sentimental attachment between the two peoples. Canadians found official interference in their affairs from "Downing Street" intolerable. Let it not be supposed that they would any more readily tolerate unofficial interference from a British Opposition party, or from the self-seeking faction in Britain which seeks to establish a monopoly for its views by the creation of an exclusive tariff.

CAPTAIN ARMAND TO THE FRONT

Colonel Sam Hughes is sending Captain Armand Lavergne to the Balkans, to watch the operations there on behalf of the Canadian Militia Department—and with the chance, of course, that Captain Armand will get himself shot and so be removed permanently from the role of disturber of the Ministerial peace. Captain Armand has been among the noisiest of the leaders of the Nationalist wing of the Government's supporters. Or late he has been saying that in Quebec which were much better, not said by an ally of the Minister; things which made it pretty clear that Captain Armand could be counted on to head a revolt if he were in the country when any naval scheme is brought down. So he is to be packed off, in a brand new uniform and with salary and allowances, to the Balkans, where shells are flying and bayonet dripping—and where a young gentleman of his stamp might easily be mistaken by one or other party as belonging to the enemy, and dealt with accordingly. The strategy by which the lively Colonel thus gets rid of an inconvenient friend temporarily—and perhaps permanently—is in every way worthy the great captain of the Boer commando who has been made perpetually famous in the letters of Colonel Sam Hughes.

The appointment of Mr. Bourassa is still on the job, and still controlling the patronage system of the Government to a large extent. In the matter of finding jobs for his friends, Mr. Bourassa has done remarkably well during the past year—considering that he had to work upon Government pledged up to the hilt to conduct the civil service on a non-partisan basis. Messrs. Monk, Pelletier and the Nationalist party into cabinet positions at the first go-off. The former, who seems to have some shreds and patches of conscience left, now declines to turn his back upon the campaign, and the voters by whose aid he got where he is, and will be accommodated with an equally comfortable and more stable seat on the judicial bench. His Ministerial colleagues, who have no trouble with their consciences, will swallow their professions of principle and hang on to the job. The slaughter of civil servants which has shocked and scandalized even Conservatives throughout the country generally has been carried on by Mr. Bourassa, and the positions so made vacant have been filled, not by Conservatives, but by company men. Mr. Bourassa, the De Wit of the Nationalist wing—goes to observe the Balkan controversy, at a suitable remuneration. Mr. Bourassa seems to be about the only one of the conspicuous figures in the faction who has not been provided for, it being the part of a good commander to look after his own troops, considering himself. But there remains the High Commissioner in France, held by a Liberal who may be ousted at any moment to make way for "the boss." Of late, Mr. Bourassa has not been occupying a very conspicuous place in the sun, having seemingly withdrawn from the foreground for a time in consideration of the naval "emergency" in which the Ministers find themselves. But he evidently still says who are to be appointed to a goodly share of the jobs that are worth having.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Now that Colonel Roosevelt's valour is assured, there is likely to be a sharp contrast between the two peoples. Canadians found official interference in their affairs from "Downing Street" intolerable. Let it not be supposed that they would any more readily tolerate unofficial interference from a British Opposition party, or from the self-seeking faction in Britain which seeks to establish a monopoly for its views by the creation of an exclusive tariff.

EDMONTON LISTING BUREAU

Don't Forget It

We guarantee to circulate your listings in the principal offices of Edmonton and Strathcona, and if your prices are right we guarantee quick sale.

For some time it has been almost an impossibility for the real estate men of this city to keep their listings confirmed and up to date, and it is almost impossible for the parties listing their property to call each office and notify them when it is sold. We have been the past six months been advertising heavily. The result is that we have a large number of listings coming in daily. We have been looking after such listings closely, but have not been able to advertise one-quarter of them. Now, in order to give everybody fair show, and not only enter their listings in our books, we have devised a new plan.

This plan is the establishing of a Listing Bureau. That is to say, you list your property with the Bureau and we immediately notify all principal offices of Edmonton and Strathcona. Our method of doing this is to furnish each office with a new list every morning, together with a list of all the properties that are taken off the market. In order to do this we have to keep in close touch with the property owners and it is up to them to keep us well posted, as it is a big undertaking to keep all listings so that we can guarantee delivery to real estate offices of the city. It is our intention to put these listings into the real estate offices at a much lower cost than they can secure them through their own agents. In order to do this we must have your listings and your aid to keep them up to date, and we strongly believe that this Bureau will be a great benefit to both the real estate men and to the property holders of the city. We are devoting our entire time to the handling of listings only and hope with your assistance to make it a great success.
